Summer & Fall 2010 Softball

League Information

LEAGUE DEFINITIONS:

Upper Division "Class C" - Highest skill level teams. Teams have talented players that have above average softball playing experience. Good offensive and defensive skills with good home run power and strong team experience is recommended. General team throwing ability and accuracy is average to above with occasional errors. Team speed is above average. Players normally have tournament experience.

Middle Division "Class D" – Mid to upper skill level teams. Teams may have a few skilled players but are usually lacking in making the defensive plays on a consistent basis. Team speed is average to less than, depending upon the makeup of the team. General team throwing ability and accuracy is average and reflects consistency. Teams tend to make 3 or 5 mental errors during the course of a game. All players should possess knowledge of rules and regulations.

Lower Division "Rec" – Lowest skill level teams. Teams are generally comprised of a group of friends who want to play some social recreational softball for fun and exercise. Teams are generally not considered to be competitive. After game activities are usually as important as the game itself. Teams may have a couple of skilled players mixed in with players with little or no experience or skill, and that's ok with team members. Consistency and team speed is mixed. General throwing ability and accuracy can range from average to poor, as well as ability to catch and hit. Teams tend to make at least one mental or physical error each inning, and generally tend not to compete in tournaments.

Co-Ed "Rec" – All levels welcome.
